We obtain our units from a variety of sources, ensuring that as many original features are present as possible.

All units are stripped down as far as practicable, to ensure that as many surfaces as possible are accessed within our refurbishment process. Glass, doors, hinged doors: all are removed in order that components can be assessed and replaced if required.

Surfaces are generally given a water-based cleaning coat, followed by oil-based undercoat, which is applied prior to the top coat.

Glass is thoroughly cleaned, components replaced, oiled or waxed, so that you get a wonderful conversation-piece, fully operational, and arguably better than the day it was new!

Interior surfaces may be left painted or surfaced with Fablon to give it that authentic retro look.

Customers are free to choose their own colour schemes and paint types, so you can match existing cabinetry colour and create your own personal finishes.
